

Love writing? Love talking about writing? Want to help others become better writers?

Take CSTW 3467S in Spring 2015 to learn how!

CSTW 3467S: Issues and Methods in Tutoring Writing

- Section 1 (Class #26332): Tues & Thurs 9:35am-10:50am, Denney 343, Dr. Chris Manion
- Section 2 (Class #16969): Tues & Thurs 11:10am-12:30pm, Denney 312, Katherine DeLuca

This course is an opportunity to learn how to engage in productive collaborative learning situations and to improve your own writing. Planning to teach in the future but want more practice in responding to others' writing? Enrolling in the Minor in Professional Writing (CSTW 3467 is an elective for the MPW!)? This course is for you!

Interested in an on-campus job? Students who successfully complete the course are eligible to apply for paid tutoring positions in the OSU Writing Center that will start next fall. We will work around your schedule when you are hired.

This course prepares undergraduates to work with writers from diverse backgrounds and disciplines. This class provides a unique opportunity for its members to learn about composition theory and pedagogy, tutoring strategies, Writing Center and Writing Across the Curriculum theories and practices. Students will then put these theories and practices to work in the writing center setting. You will apprentice as writing consultants/tutors in the OSU Writing Center as part of your "service" commitment. Therefore, in addition to our regularly scheduled class time, each person enrolled in this course will spend approximately one hour per week in the Writing Center.

Join us in CSTW 3467S to learn to become a responsive reader! We are looking for more than proofreaders. We want students who ask good questions, are strong listeners, and are interested in helping other writers.

Visit <http://cstw.osu.edu> to learn more about the Writing Center and CSTW 3467S!