Guest Speaker Dr. Drake, President, OSU

Several good things have happened lately – Fundraising concluded 6 week ago and $3 billion was raised. OSU has recommitted to being a strong supporter of graduate students; something it had fallen back on for the last few years. OSU has become more selective about the applicants. University will move towards being more supportive of the students from lower income families. We want to improve the quality of teaching – we appreciate the graduate TAs. We want to be known for the teaching quality which should be reflected in your future academic careers. We have been upgrading classrooms and technology.

Election results have turned out differently than what was expected. We don't know the higher education policy of the incoming government. As of now there isn't a concrete policy on education. We are going to focus on things that will work for us regardless of the government policy. We will not modify our course if things don't match with our goal.

We are in a good position to sustain and maintain our momentum.

Themes of some of the questions and snippets of answers from the Q&A session:

Q – Comprehensive energy management plan – voiced resentment about leadership's stand on privatization

A – When there is a proposal, the plan will be evaluated. We have been talking about this for over a year now. There's nothing to say about it now as there is no plan as of yet. We adjust our decision based on students' concern. We will take decisions in the best interest of the university.

Q – What help can be provided to students who commute from other regional campuses – who have to travel for classes and field placements

A – We have dramatically increased the online courses. We have developed a flexible scheduling algorithm for summer and summer course offerings. We are working with our regional campuses to meet requirements of students and faculty. We are working on mobility in campus. We will do what we can to integrate regional campuses.

Q - OSU's commitment to source local and sustainable food sources in the campus. Who decides on the 40% and how are the sources recognized?

A – Works largely through the guidance of the provost who has a degree in agriculture and entomology. We have invested heavily on outreach program to address the 22% food insecurity in the Franklin County. If you want to be more involved, reach out to the provost.

Q – What are your views about Buckeye Village and future family housing?

A – In our continual renewal a portion of Buckeye Village has been assigned for other uses. As residents are moving away, our attempt is to fill the empty spots with new incoming families. Goal is to have highest quality housing and affordability. We will engage in construction or tie up with partners who will provide quality housing.

New business

Yao wan was elected as the senator.

President Bowers.461 adjourned the meeting at 6.13 pm.

Welcome to a new year and a new term!

I hope that you were able to carve out at least some time for rest and relaxation over the break. While I did get to enjoy some good time with family and friends, the weeks just prior to end of term and the past several days have been an opportunity for several meetings with university leaders regarding CGS concerns and priorities.

Many students have expressed concerns related to the specific incident of violence on campus at the end of November and more broadly to concerns related to other acts, especially regarding GTAs and roles/responsibilities when in the classroom. I've shared these concerns with President Drake, Dean Herness and several others. At this time, it appears that some programs and colleges on campus have been more proactive than others in providing graduate students with information and resources. I have requested, and been assured of progress on, more coordinated university-wide efforts. If you have specific concerns, or if you feel your college/program has provided helpful response/resources, I hope you'll come to our January meeting prepared to briefly share during Delegate Concerns. This is an important issue and while the university community is more focused on the topic, it's vital that we participate in that conversation and achieve what we can for grad students' safety and the safety of those we serve.

Following the November meeting I was able to share our resolution regarding Housing issues of families and grad student more broadly in one-on-ones with various university leaders. While it does not change the situation we face, there is wide agreement that the way plans for removing units at Buckeye Village without a full process to consider both challenges for those who continue to live there and needs of new students moved forward was not in keeping with the university's highest ideals. Although this is a matter that will require on-going active attention on the part of CGS; I can tell you that all involved are making good faith efforts to respond to our concerns. A few weeks ago I had the first of what are to set to become regular meetings with Dr. J and Jay Kasey, both to review issues regarding the project set to begin this summer at Buckeye Village and planning efforts around our more broad based housing concerns. Next week, on Jan 18th, Student Life is hosting the first of a series of sessions to hear from graduate students, with or without families, about our concerns and needs related to housing. I strongly encourage you to attend and to encourage your constituents to attend one of these meetings. I realize that notice of this one is pretty short, but 1) I appreciate Student Life's efforts to move forward quickly and 2) I realize there will be additional sessions for which we'll have better notice.

I regret to report that our chair of Graduate Compensation and Benefits committee has had to step down for personal reasons. However, as last year's chair, I was already working on a draft of this year's GCBC report and Matthew Connolly has agreed to continue his role as unofficial vice-chair. This means that we are still making good progress. Over break I met with the graduate school regarding our proposed survey of programs and their expectations of GTAs. Matthew and I have a meeting in the next couple of weeks with folks who will be assisting with data on that project. Expect to hear more at the January and February Delegate meetings.

Finally, there are some exciting CGS projects coming up on the horizon. Thanks to the leadership of Deborwah Faulk, our 2nd annual program in Diversity and Implicit Bias Awareness is starting later this month. Our Diversity and Inclusion committee is also leading the way towards graduate student participation in more university-wide events regarding Hidden Figures. Chris Pierce and SERC are working to figure out a good way to better inform grad students about just what is (and Is NOT) recyclable. Be on the look-out for more info—peoples' tossing the wrong things into recycling bins on campus is greatly hindering these sustainability efforts. Tracey Walterbusch is in the midst of preparations for out 31st Hayes Research forum. If you aren't presenting your work at that event, please consider volunteering and/or visiting some sessions to learn about fellow students' research work. Speaking of research, please don't forget the grant programs we have, administered by Alex Wesaw and Olga Kondratjeva and their committees!

I'll close with a "thank you" to all of our delegates, senators, committee chairs and committee members. My role as president provides a unique seat from which to see how much work so many fellow graduate students do on behalf of our university and our fellow students. I am grateful for the honor and privilege to witness all that service.

All the best,

David
